

Exciting Developments For Our Chapter

What Happens If Someone Complains About You As A Coach

You are invited to join your fellow coaches from ICF San Antonio and from around the world from comfort of your own home via a video conference to learn alongside of Dr. Michael J. Marx. He joins us from his home in frozen Alaska to share his deep knowledge of the important topic of Coaching Ethics and will expand on what happens when...

You get a notification from the ICF staff that someone has filed a complaint about you. The IRB (Independent Review Board) has determined that the case has legitimacy and you are asked to respond to the allegations.

How do you feel?

In this session, Dr. Marx presents the system and structure behind the ECR (Ethics Conduct Review). Participants will gain an appreciation for the ECR process which is more pedagogical and less punitive. They will be better able to apply the Code of Ethics to their work and their lives.

The objectives of this presentation will be as follows:

- Increase awareness of the ECR process
- Increase sensitivity to the feelings of the complainant as well as the accused
- Learn how to prevent an accusation
- Raise the ethical standard ICF members

Register early to secure your spot. One CCE in Coaching Ethics will be awarded for attending this event.

Here's a little bit more the speaker:

Michael J. Marx, MBA, EdD, PCC, CPCC. Michael is a Professional Certified Coach with ICF specializing in business coaching and corporate consultation. Dr. Marx currently serves as the leader of the ICF 'Global Community of Practice on Ethics.' He also serves on their Independent Review Board and on the Ethics Code Review Team. Additionally, he is a past-president of Christian Coaches Network International and the author of Ethics and Risk Management for Christian Coaches (2016).

ICF & ATD San Antonio Collaborate @ Broadway Bank

Thanks for coming out and making our February 27th learning event a huge success. With 55+ attendees at this learning lunch hosted by Broadway Bank, this is the largest attendance that ICF San Antonio has had at an in-person learning event in years!

Much thanks to Scott Hopkins of Broadway Bank, Tracey Contreras & Cora Lonning of ATD San Antonio, and James Beeman of ICF San Antonio for brainstorming and coordinating this stellar event.

As Barbara A. F. Greene of Greene and Associates, Inc. mentioned on LinkedIn, "Collaboration between ATD and ICF accelerates learning and development for organizations" and this directly aligns with our chapter's mission to drive change and unlock human potential in the greater San Antonio area.

Broadway Bank is here for good and we are too!

- A day of workshops and inspiration - "Change. For Good" - Attendees will learn about coaching, experience workshops on personal and professional change, and be inspired by a keynote from radio host, Sonny Melendrez.
